The Archives of the National Arboretum:

A Finding Aid

Draft version

Compiled by Joseph H. Howard, former Director of the National Agricultural Library.
Completed in its present form in Fall of 1995.
Occupies 59 archival boxes, approximately 28 linear feet.
Collection donated to the National Agricultural Library by the National Arboretum.

This finding aid is an alphabetical index to the National Arboretum Archives. Preliminary series levels have been established, but not described. Preceding the index are transcriptions of two historical documents found in the collection that will help place the materials into historical context.

The Special Collections of the National Agricultural Library is open Monday through Friday from 8:00 to 4:30.

Notes on National Arboretum History

The idea of arboretums is not new as they have existed since the middle of the 16th century. One of the oldest and most famous was that of Rene du Bellay at Touvoys, France, at the end of the Renaissance period. More recent is Kew Gardens in England which began in 1763. In this country, the best known is the Arnold Arboretum at Boston, containing 415 acres and 6,000 species. It was started by a trust fund of $1,000,000 in 1872. It is owned and administered by Harvard University.

Interest in a National Arboretum for the United States began before the turn of the century. In 1899 an article from the Los Angeles Times noted that a National Arboretum was to be established by the government in Los Angeles. Apparently this did not materialize.

The first formal study began in 1901 by the McMillan Commission.

In 1914, the idea was proposed to have a Botanic Garden-Arboretum in Rock Creek Park. This was discussed in various quarters for a number of years.

In 1917, Mt. Hamilton was suggested as an ideal site. This was recommended by Dr. Coville under the signature of the Secretary of Agriculture, David Houston. At this time also, the first soil survey of the area was made by H. H. Bennet. This proposal did not receive support for some years.

In 1920, the plan for the Botanic Garden-Arboretum at Mt. Hamilton as prepared by the Committee on the Library was approved by the Fine Arts Commission. Much publicity was given this plan by local and National press.

At the culmination of three years interchange of views, the Commission of Fine Arts under the Chairmanship of Mr. Charles Moore was requested to report on available sites for a National Botanical Garden and Arboretum. The report was to have been submitted to a Congressional Committee, but was delayed by outbreak of World War I. The report was submitted on May 21, 1920, and a hearing was held before the Joint Committee, presented to the Senate a land requirement Bill for taking over the Mt. Hamilton site. This had two readings before Congress adjourned.

The American Association of Nurserymen was greatly interested in this proposal and got behind it, but the onset of World War I gave the project a setback. In the early twenties, many organizations such as the Botanical Society, Forestry Association, Garden Club of America, and many other groups joined efforts along with the nurserymen.

Dr. Frederick V. Coville, Botanist of the Department of Agriculture, assisted by Chief of Bureau William A. Taylor, spearheaded the drive in Agriculture and made contacts with Congress. Most of the wording for any bills introduced or proposed to be introduced thru the Congress from either the House or the Senate were authored by Frederick V. Coville (this is proven by handwritten drafts). Dr. Coville had long been interested and obtained support and interest of many scientists and National horticultural and botanical organizations. Without the undaunted assistance of Mrs. Frank B. Noyes the project might have been longer delayed. She, personally, contacted President Coolidge and we are told that he agreed to sign a bill if Congress passed it.

On December 4, 1924, Senator George Pepper of Pennsylvania introduced a bill in the Senate, and on the same day Representative Robert Luce of Massachusetts introduced a similar bill in the House. Hearings were held on the House Bill and it failed to pass.

A year later these same men reintroduced their bills with better results. The Senate Bill was passed on May 10, 1926, but the House put it off another year and finally passed it. Mary March 4, 1927, the Bill became law.

The provisions of the Bill are as follows:

1. The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to establish and maintain a National Arboretum for purposes of education concerning tree and plant life.
2. $300,000 authorized for purchase of land.
3. The Arboretum shall be administered by the Secretary of Agriculture separately from the Agricultural, horticultural and forestry stations of the Department, but it shall be so correlated with these as to bring about the most effective integration of its facilities and discoveries.
4. The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to create an Advisory Council in relation to the plans and development of the National Arboretum to include representatives of national organizations interested in the work of the Arboretum.

The Bill establishing the National Arboretum was signed by President Coolidge on March 4, 1927. $300,000 was authorized for purchase of land.

On April 19, 1927, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine wrote Mrs. Frank B. Noyes of the Committee of the National Capital of the Garden Club of America appointing her to the newly organized Arboretum Advisory Council and sent her the pen President Coolidge had sent to the Secretary. The Secretary's letter stated: "I take pleasure in presenting the Garden Club of America with the pen which was sent to me by the President of the United States after he signed the bill for a National Arboretum."

Members of the first Advisory Council appointed by Secretary Jardine were:

Mr. Frederick A. Delano, Washington, D. C. Chairman
Dr. Liberty Hyde Bailey, Ithaca, New York
Prof. Henry S. Graves, New Haven, Connecticut
Mr. Harlan P. Kelsey, Salem, Massachusetts
Mr. John C. Merriman, Washington, D. C.
Mr. Frederick Law Olmsted, Brookline, Massachusetts
Mrs. Harold I. Pratt, Glen Cove, Long Island, N. Y.
Mr. Robert Pyle, West Grove, Pennsylvania

Secretary Jardine's letter of April 5, 1927, to the Chairman, Frederick A. Delano, appointed the Committee states:

"It is clearly the intent of this law that the Arboretum be devoted primarily to research and discovery. Forestry and horticulture will be advanced by these discoveries. The Arboretum will provide also for certain kinds of outdoor education not afforded by parks and playgrounds. It is my desire, furthermore, that the Arboretum be developed with all the beauty that the situation permits."

- 1927 The first meeting of the Advisory Council was held on June 17, 1927, at a dinner at the home of Mr. Delano, Chairman. Five members were present: Mr. Delano, Dr. Bailey, Mr. Kelsey, Mr. Olmsted, and Mr. Pyle.
- 1929 A meeting was held in the office of the Secretary in June, 1929.
- 1931 The next meeting of record was on March 26, 1931, in the office of Dr. A. F. Woods, Director of Scientific Work. Two major resolutions were adopted: (1) That the Department request Congress for authority to purchase additional land. An additional $300,000 should be requested. (2) That in connections with the above resolution the Council recommends that there be prepared a Plan of Development of the area for the Arboretum. After this, meetings of the Arboretum Advisory Council were held only intermittently at the call of Chairman Delano.
- 1940 On March 20, the Council met in the office of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.
- 1941 The 13th annual meeting was held on November 17, in the Interior Department building. Much discussion on the slow progress at the Arboretum.
- 1945 November 8. Conference with Mr. Cardon on the Arboretum. Held in Conference room of the Agricultural Research Administration of the Department. All money appropriated up to this time after land purchase was applied to actual maintenance and Herbarium staffing activities. There seemed to be an idea current that the Arboretum was to take care of plantings along the proposed Baltimore-Washington Parkway. At this meeting it was recommended that a new or reconstituted Advisory Council be formed. Much discussion was held and they planned to have a council of 15 members meeting annually.

- 1945 November 23. Meeting was held in Interior Building, called by General Grant at the request of Mr. Kelsey and Dr. Cardon to develop a method of procedure for incorporating into the Arboretum the areas being reclaimed from the Anacostia Flats and the border strip along the Baltimore Parkway. Much discussion cleared up the responsibility that Parks Office would have jurisdiction over planting the Parkway. If Arboretum were expanded it would take additional legislation to spend money on Parkway. The Arboretum was only to make suggestions. (Mr. Morrison did make a plan for plantings along the Parkway and met and advised with Parks Officials regarding the landscaping of same).
- 1945 March 26. Meeting held in Mr. Delano's office. Kelsey reported that Park Commission meeting March 23 had unanimously approved the idea of the National Arboretum taking over the M Street, north.
